- From the Pennsylvania Whig. THE PARTING.

Farewell! thou dearest girl, farewell! Since we awhile must part, Let Hope each gloomy fear dispel. That may o'ershade thy heart. Farewell, dear girl! and let us prove, That absence is the test of love.

Dry up dry up those falling tears, Each rising sigh suppress, Nor with imaginary fears, Create a real distress. Ab! dearest girl thy tears restrain,

We part but now, to meet again. Tho'absence, many a lengthen'd hopr, May keep thee from my view,

Absence, will prove me true. Tho' absent, I shall true remain, We part but now, to meet again. Farewell, dear girl, once more fare-

Absence, will more increase thy power,

How hard it is to part, Let hope within thy bosom dwell, I'll wear thee in my heart.

Thy wonted cheerfulness regain,

We part but now, tomeet again.
