POETRY.

From Englishman's Maganine. THE THREE HOMES.

Where is thy home? I asked a child, Who in the morning air Wastwinging Bowers most sweet and wild

In garlands for her hair. My home, the happy heart replied, And smiled in childish glee,

Is on the sunny mountain side Where soft winds wander free!! O! blessings fall on artless youth,

And all its rosy hours, When every word is joy and truth, And treasures live in flowers!

Where is thy home? I asked of one Who bent with flushing face, To hear a warrior's tender tone In the wild wood's secret place.

She spoke not, bu her varying cheek, The tale might well impart, The home of her voung spirit meek

Was in a kindred heart. Ah! souls that well might soar above, To earth will fondly cling,

And build their hopes on human love, That light and fragile thing! Where is thy home, thou lonely man?

I asked a pilgrim grey, Who came, with forrowed brow, and wan Slow musing on his way.

He paused and with a solemn mien Upturned his hely eyes, The land I seek thou ne'er hast seen

My home is in the skies! O! blest-thrice blest the heart must be To whom such thoughts are given,

That walks from worldly fetters free;-Its only home in heaven.
